

Worthy Is The Lamb

In the right hand of God who sits on His throne
Is a book closed with seven seals.
An angel cried and said, "Who is ...
Worthy to look, who can open the book?"
Tell me, "Who can break its seals?"

There was a hush in heaven and earth, not a one could open up the book.
Then John wept for not a one was found,
But an elder said, "Don't weep, but look now ..."

CHORUS

Behold, the Lion from the tribe of Judah came
He's the Root of David, and all Heaven proclaims,
"He can open the book; He can break the seals,
The Lamb of God, the love of God revealed!"

The Lamb took the book, in whom there is no wrong,
And the angels and elders sang a song.
With one voice they all cried, "The Lamb is ...
Worthy and was slain, by His blood He forgave,
He triumphed over death and the grave!

We have now been made kings and priests.
Thanks be to God who's given everything.
Today we sing with the host of heaven, "Now look ...
The Lamb of God can open the book."
